Broiler Grand-Parents

Kazi Farms Group is the grand parent (GP) franchisee for the Cobb and Ross breeds in Bangladesh.

GP farms are located in the most isolated areas, and are well protected from any disease outbreak. All GP sheds are closed so that no wild birds can enter, and have tunnel ventilation to regulate temperature. All farm workers live on the farm and a strict no-visitors policy is enforced. The grand-parent flocks are fed 100% vegetarian feed made without meat, bone or fish meal to prevent possibility of bacterial contamination. The eggs are hatched at our GP hatchery in Thakurgaon, which uses single-stage incubators for the best possible hatchery hygiene. The parent stock chicks produced are guaranteed free from mycoplasma and salmonella.

Technicians from Cobb-Vantress have rated the productivity of Grand Parent flocks are being among the best in Asia.

All the breeding farms of the Kazi Farms Group use Cobb 500 and Ross parent chicks produced by Kazi Grand Parents. They are extremely serious about product quality. They guarantee the customers that they will get chicks which are equal in quality Cobb 500 and Ross parent stock imported from any country in the world.
